

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A chair with a chair back pivotally mounted to a pair of armrests which are fixedly secured to a seat. The chair back can be moved from a collapsed position located directly adjacent the seat to an upright position which is substantially transverse to the seat. When in the upright position, a pair of spring biased pins engage with the chair back in the upright position.